Emergency Management and Preparedness

SWRPC

With 2017 being such an active hurricane season in the U.S., we hear constant reminders of the importance for being vigilant and prepared for heavy weather events and other disaster-related situations. In the Monadnock Region, we've experienced our fair share of flooding, severe winter storms, and extreme erosion. over the years, and Hurricane Irene in 2011 was a near-miss that serves as a reminder that we are not immune to significant disaster events.

Please plan to join us and our guest presenter, Perry Plummer, Director of NH's Homeland Security and Emergency Management (HSEM) to learn about the state's role and what municipalities could and should be doing with regard to emergency management and preparedness. Mr. Plummer is responsible for coordinating the state's response to major disasters as well as planning, training and exercises to ensure readiness at the local and state levels of government to ensure the safety and security of NH's citizens.
