Planning Commission Adopts Monadnock Region Future: A Plan for Southwest New Hampshire

On January 13th, the Planning Commission's Board of Directors adopted, "Monadnock Region Future: A Plan for Southwest New Hampshire." This document, which is advisory in nature, is intended to serve as a resource for the Region's communities as well as organizations, institutions, and other entities with an interest in planning and preparing for the future. It describes a number of trends and conditions impacting the Region such as our aging population, post-recession economy, outmigration of youth and families, increase in severe storm events, to mention a few. It also presents information on opportunities for communities to address these potential challenges while sustaining and enhancing community vitality, economic prosperity, stewardship of natural and cultural resources, and preparedness for emergencies and natural disasters.

What separates this Plan from those developed in years past, is the extensive level of public involvement and its integrative approach to planning. Much of the information contained in the Plan reflects the thoughts, ideas, and opinions gathered through a range of outreach activities through the project's three-year timeframe. In addition, the Plan focuses on the interconnections between factors, such as housing, transportation, economic opportunity, and environmental quality, which have an impact on overall quality of life and well-being. This integrative and comprehensive approach to planning helps to highlight the relationships between diverse elements and forces in communities, as well as opportunities for collaboration.

The Planning Commission anticipates that this Plan will stimulate discussion, action, and promote regional thinking and coordination among the Region's communities, organizations, institutions, and others. ### Woodstove Changeout Program Announced

On January 22nd, SWRPC staff attended an event in Keene where a woodstove changeout program was announced for residents of Cheshire County. The changeout will improve air quality by reducing pollution, especially fine particulate matter, which comes from older, less efficient woodstoves. The program, administered by the American Lung Association New England, will distribute up to $425,000 in vouchers for residents wishing to trade in their non-EPA certified woodstove or wood boiler for a new wood, pellet, or gas appliance. Participating vendors have received educational outreach materials created by SWRPC and the Greater Keene Air Quality Education and Outreach Campaign, an effort supported by the NH Department of Environmental Services and local stakeholders including Cheshire Medical Center, the City of Keene, the Greater Monadnock Public Health Network, and Keene State College. For more information about the woodstove changeout program, contact Michelle Edwards at medwards@lungne.org or visit <http://www.lungne.org/woodstove>. The NH Division of Homeland Security and Emergency Management's ReadyNH website can help residents improve their preparedness for disasters. The website includes information on different types of disasters, suggestions for emergency kits and family plans, and how to sign up for emergency alerts. It also contains resources that municipalities can use to help residents become more prepared, such as sample Public Service Announcements for TV or radio.
